Important OSAP Information for Students Withdrawing from Full Time Studies

It is important that students contact Centennial College Student Financial Services office to discuss your particular situation and circumstances and to be absolutely sure you have the accurate information necessary to keep your loans in good standing. The documentation is prepared ONLY as a guide for your informational purposes.

OSAP Withdrawal Implications

Once you withdraw from full-time studies or drop below 60% of a full-time course load (below 40% for students registered as Special Needs). Your OSAP file will be reassessed using your last day of full-time attendance as your withdrawal date. This reassessment may in fact result in your OSAP file being in an “overpaid” situation. (For future study, any overpayment may result in you being deemed ineligible for OSAP for any future study. Contact Student Financial Services at financialaidquestions@centennialcollege.ca now, so you know your status.

Have you returned all of your Library Materials to the Library? Do you have any outstanding fines at the Library?

Before you go, please be sure that your account at Centennial Libraries is clear. Your library account must be clear so that you can receive your transcripts and register at Centennial College again in the future.

To check your account, log in to My Account at library.centennialcollege.ca. If you have charges or items to return, please contact Centennial Libraries at library@centennialcollege.ca.
